Much of the information contained in the enclosed Summary of Benefits and Coverage (SBC) does not directly apply to your HRA account. SBCs are mandated by federal health care reform to help consumers understand and compare health insurance plans. Your HRA account is not an insurance plan. Some of the information and defined terms in the enclosed SBC are not applicable to your HRA account. Nevertheless, they are required to be included.

The complete seven-page SBC is enclosed on four double-sided pages. When referring to the SBC, keep in mind:

- The HRA VEBA Plan is an account-based health reimbursement arrangement (HRA) you can use to reimburse your qualified out-of-pocket medical care expenses; it is not an insurance plan.
- Your HRA account is funded with employer contributions, which may include mandatory salary reductions.
- With the HRA VEBA Plan, you do not pay a premium for coverage and you do not have co-pays or deductibles. However, you can use funds in your HRA account to reimburse these types of qualified expenses if you have a claims-eligible account.
- Qualified expenses, as defined by the IRS, include services received from any licensed healthcare provider.
- Your maximum benefit (reimbursement) amount is equal to your available account balance at the time your claim is processed.

If you have a question about the enclosed SBC, send it via email to customercare@hraveba.org. Most emails receive a response within 24-48 hours. You may also contact the customer care center by calling the telephone number contained in the enclosed SBC.

The following terms relate to traditional health insurance coverage and are not applicable to a health reimbursement arrangement but are required by law to be included in this Summary of Benefits and Coverage.

- Co-payments are fixed dollar amounts (for example, $15) you pay for covered health care, usually when you receive the service.
- Co-insurance is your share of the costs of a covered service, calculated as a percent of the allowed amount for the service. For example, if the plan’s allowed amount for an overnight hospital stay is $1,000, your co-insurance payment of 20% would be $200. This may change if you haven’t met your deductible.
- The amount the plan pays for covered services is based on the allowed amount. If an out-of-network provider charges more than the allowed amount, you may have to pay the difference. For example, if an out-of-network hospital charges $1,500 for an overnight stay and the allowed amount is $1,000, you may have to pay the $500 difference. (This is called balance billing.)
- Your cost sharing does not depend on whether a provider is in a network.

About these Coverage Examples:

These examples show how this plan might cover medical care in given situations. Use these examples to see, in general, how much financial protection a sample patient might get if they are covered under this plan.

This is not a cost estimator.

Don't use these examples to estimate your actual costs for health care under this or any other plan. The actual care you receive will be different from these examples, and the cost of that care will also be different.

These examples assume the sample participant has a $5,000 account balance that is not in limited status due to one or more coverage elections at the time claims for reimbursement of these medical expenses are submitted. The results in a health reimbursement arrangement (HRA) will vary under these examples, depending on the participant's actual account balance.

These examples also assume that the medical expenses are not covered or reimbursed under another policy or plan of the participant.

See the next page for other important information about these examples.

Questions and answers about the Coverage Examples:

What are some of the assumptions behind the Coverage Examples?

- Costs don't include premiums or mandatory salary contributions.
- Sample care costs are based on national averages supplied by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and aren't specific to a particular geographic area or health plan.
- The patient's condition was not an excluded or preexisting condition.
- All services and treatments started and ended in the same coverage period.
- There are no other medical expenses for any participant covered under this plan.
- Out-of-pocket expenses are based only on treating the condition in the example.
- The patient received all care from in-network providers. If the patient had received care from out-of-network providers, costs would have been higher.

What does a Coverage Example show?

For each treatment situation, the Coverage Example helps you see what expenses might be left up to you to pay because the service or treatment isn't covered or payment is limited by your current account balance.

Does the Coverage Example predict my own care needs?

- ✗ No. Treatments shown are just examples. The care you would receive for this condition could be different based on your doctor's advice, your age, how serious your condition is, and many other factors.

Does the Coverage Example predict my future expenses?

- ✗ No. Coverage Examples are not cost estimators. You can't use the examples to estimate costs for an actual condition. They are for comparative purposes only. Your own costs will be different depending on the care you receive, the prices your providers charge, and the reimbursement your health plan allows.

Can I use Coverage Examples to compare plans?

- ✓ Yes. When you look at the Summary of Benefits and Coverage for other plans, you'll find the same Coverage Examples. When you compare plans, check the "Patient Pays" box in each example. The smaller that number, the more coverage the plan provides.

Are there other costs I should consider when comparing plans?

- ✓ Yes. An important cost is the premium you pay on certain plans. This plan is a health reimbursement arrangement (HRA), and premiums do not apply. Your HRA plan is funded through employer contributions, which may include mandatory salary reductions. You should also consider contributions to accounts such as health savings accounts (HSAs) and flexible spending arrangements (FSAs) that help you pay out-of-pocket expenses.
